SHOT BY ROBBERS IN FIGHT FOR GOLD DAYLIGHT DUEL IN CITY OF SAN FRANCISCO

S. P. RAILROAD MAY PURCHASE RACETRACK

STANFORD WINS; CALIFORNIANS DUCKED

Said to Seek Straight Line Route to the City of Berkeley

MYSTERIOUS AGENT BUYING MUCH LAND

Harriman People Said to Have Made Offer for Key Route

Coming with the last day of racing in California much weight is placed on the report to the effect that the Southern Pacific is soon to commence the building of an electric line which will run parallel to the Key Route pier as far as Emeryville, where it will cut across the Emeryville racing course straight through to Berkeley, reaching that point five minutes in advance of the Key Route schedule.

Though no verification of the report could be obtained this morning from either the Southern Pacific officials or the stockholders of the race track, many prominent property owners of Emeryville, which place will be greatly benefited by the proposed new road, declare that some move is certainly under way, as for the past year; in fact, since the Southern Pacific was granted a franchise from the Berkeley Council over twelve months ago, some mysterious agent has been buying up property right and left and obtaining options on land for acre after acre, which it is hinted the Southern Pacific will use as their right of way.

Investigation into the town records has shown that M. H. Durst, a capitalist of Alameda, is the investor who has purchased over $150,000 worth of Emeryville property in the last year and has secured options to much more land.

It is broadly hinted that Durst is acting as agent for the Southern Pacific.

Land Is Controlled

At any rate, twelve and one-half acres of land directly adjoining the racetrack and reaching to San Pablo have been taken up and staked out, the fact that the property is on the other side of the racetrack, which is Shilohmound Park and which stretches to the tide lands of the bay, is also in the possession of the railroad. It is easily realized that the race course is all that interferes with a straight road from San Francisco to Berkeley.

If the report materializes the building of the road will involve an expenditure of between ten and fifteen million dollars.

Offer to Key Route

T. F. Smith, of the San Francisco and San Jose road, it is said has refused an offer from the Southern Pacific of $15,000,000 for the Key Route. Both roads, situated at present, makes faster time to Berkeley than the steam road does, but if the Southern Pacific had the road, and had and operates it with certainty, as rumor says it will, it will place the Key Route in the same position as that road now has the Southern Pacific.

It will be a very easy matter for the Harriman line to make one continuous round trip about Oakland with the installation of the proposed road, on an arid line. Booklets on a map of the route will be available to the Fourth and Franklin streets stations, thence to First street and from there to the Sixteenth street union depo and back again, all in Emeryville station, to the pier.

To Fully Investigate

Union National Bank

WASHINGTON, April 17.—Immediately after the suspension of the Union National Bank of Oakland, Calif., a few days ago, Comptroller of Currency T. J. Ryan ordered the suspension of Bank Examiner Charles G. Reed, pending an investigation to determine whether the stock of the bank was tainted and if it was reported it solvent. A full investigation of the bank for some time past will be made by the Comptroller.

Will Fight Johnson

Before Ketchel Does

NEW YORK, April 17.—A verbal agreement for a match between Jack Johnson, the world's heavy-weight champion, and Al Kaufman of San Francisco was reached here today between Johnson and Billy Dehaven, representing Kaufman. The fight is to take place when Johnson returns from England before the Johnson-Ketchel fight.

Holds Up Bank

And Shoots Banker

SEATTLE, April 17.—A daring but unsuccessful attempt to hold up the American Savings Bank and Trust Company at the point of a revolver was made by an unidentified man shortly after 10 o'clock today. Commanding Arthur Drew the paying teller to "come through with some money, young fellow," only to see the teller dodge behind the grating, the would-be robber directed the same command to Harry Welty, secretary of the bank, firing immediately. The shot passed only a few inches of Welty's head, taking advantage of the confusion the robber escaped through a side entrance.

Bishop, Noted Turfman, Ends

Life Over Anti-Gambling Law

LOS ANGELES, April 17.—Despondency over $11 fortune with his horses this season and grief over the passage of the California anti-gambling law caused G. W. Poole, familiarly known as "Bishop" one of the oldest and best known horsemen in the country to commit suicide at San Antonio this morning. The old timer, once admitted in Poole's stable on the track grounds. He slashed his wrist with a razor and to make death sure took a dose of carbolic acid.

Poole was a native of Kentucky and had been racing horses for twenty-five years. He was one of the old guard that included Ed Corrigan, Dave Waldo and Tom Stevens, all of

HIGH SCHOOL FRATERNITIES
MUST DISBAND BY APRIL 30,
IS EDICT OF SCHOOL BOARD

All high school students who are members of "frats" and societies have been given until April 30 by the Board of Education to sever their connection with such societies under penalty of suspension from the high schools.

Prof. C. E. Keyes, principal of the Oakland high, told this morning that the rules laid down by the Board of Education must and shall be obeyed, and he stated that no provision had been made with reference to the various fraternities that the problem of the various societies would remain in the possession of the members as one of the relics of the organization.

"A number of the student members of these 'frats' are on the fence so to speak as to whether or not they shall retain their membership in them," said Professor Keyes this morning, "but by April 30 they will have to make up their minds to either quit these societies or suffer the penalty of suspension from the high school. There is no alternative. However, I believe the majority of the students will obey the law on this subject."

Notwithstanding the professor's statement, a great deal of dissatisfaction is prevalent among the students, and it will be with no small regrets that they will give up their pet hobby. Some had planned an open rebellion, but the penalty attached was too great, and it was finally given up.

Miss Gertrude Chappell, a member of the Sigma Lambda, said today:

"It's a downright shame that we must be compelled to give up our societies, especially when they have meant so much to us. But, of course, it's no use to us to do anything but to resign. We have already taken enough of his insolence and lip. Such men as he are a detriment to the force."

The board then voted to dismiss Christopher without further ado. Not only was the patrolman denounced by the board for his neglect of duty, but he was pronounced as utterly incompetent as an officer.

"Such men as he," said the Mayor, "are useless. They couldn't catch a burglar, for instance, unless he happened to run into their very arms."

SLAUGHTER OF NINE MISSING CHRISTIANS AS RESULT OF GREAT FIRE

Mussulmans Threaten to Renew Massacre and Conditions Are Alarming

TROOPS MOVING TO SCENE OF STRUGGLE

British Vice Consul Wounded While Trying to Stop Riot

CONSTANTINOPLE, April 17.—The news received here this morning from Mersina is distinctly alarming. There is great excitement among the Mussulmans at Beyrut and Erzeroum and massacres are feared.

No confirmation yet has been received here of the reported killing of two American missionaries at Adana. The latest intelligence sets forth that several hundred Armenians and Moslems were killed at Adana in the rioting and that the Armenian quarter of the town was finally overwhelmed and destroyed by flames.

The British vice-consul at Mersina, Major Daughtry Willie, was wounded in the arm while endeavoring to quell hostilities at Adana.

Make Hard Fight

It appears that the Armenians made a good fight and defended their quarter of the town well against the fanatical Moslemans, but in spite of their brave resistance they were driven back and their opponents sacked their homes.

Three hundred Moslemans, armed with rifles left Adana by train for Tarsus, about twenty miles away. Since the departure of the men communication with Tarsus has been interrupted.

General Warthenon is silent regarding the situation there. The information in the foregoing dispatch was received in consultation with those that have come in here this morning.

Keep Troops Moving

FRANKFORT-ON-THE-MAIN, April 17.—Troops from Adrianople and Salonika are moving by train toward Constantinople. This information is conveyed by the Constantinople correspondent of the Frankfurter Zeitung in a dispatch published here today. Traveling with about 2500 soldiers on board from Salonika and Adrianople arrived at 10 o'clock this morning at Thessaloniki, about twenty-five miles from Constantinople. The men are in an orderly manner and occupied the fortifications. An artillery regiment stationed at Thessaloniki remains passive.

A garrison of 1200 men holding Thessaloniki, an outpost of Adrianople, joined the Salonika regiment. The railroad line between Thessaloniki and Ferdinand is closed to general traffic owing to the transportation of troops from Salonika.

ALEXANDRETTA, Asiatic Turkey, April 17.—The Christians on the Palaia have been attacked by Mussulmans. Two Christian villages have been burned over and the Lazarist mission is in grave danger.

ST. PETERSBURG, April 17.—The reports telegraphed from abroad that Russia is contemplating a naval demonstration in Turkish waters was authoritatively denied today. The situation in Constantinople does not affect the interests of Russia.

CONSTANTINOPLE, April 17.—Revolta has been appointed Minister of Finance as successor to Adel Bey. He is given a temporary place in the hastily formed cabinet. The position of Minister of Police, vacated by the former occupant on the demand of the men of the force, has been given to Ali Pascha, a well-known army officer.

Upon recommendations for promotions are to be made to the chief of police, and the same were created at the meeting this morning, went into action, when Chief Wilson recommended that Jaller Fred Schroeder be appointed a sergeant to fill the vacancy caused by the reduction of Mulgrew. It was held that Schroeder was the logical candidate; but another was suggested, the to be promoted, promise had been made to the effect that Schroeder was to be given a sergeant when the first occurred. The first occurred this morning, and the "logical candidate" was shoved into Mulgrew's place.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 17.—Coroner T. W. Leland has been conducting an official investigation this morning into the record of the St. George Hotel which was burned to the ground yesterday, causing a horrible loss of life, and injury to numbers of persons. It was thought that perhaps most of those who had registered in the office of the house had been accounted for, but when the records were carefully gone over at the morgue this morning, it was discovered that there were nine persons unaccounted for. These may have found refuge somewhere, but this is uncertain.

John W. Shanahan, proprietor of the St. George, furnished Coroner Leland with all of the details and both of his clerks worked together with the official stenographers throughout the morning.

City Must Work

It now devolves upon some department of the city to clear away the debris and begin a search for bodies. The department disclaims responsibility for this work and Coroner Leland will hold a conference with officials of the board of public works and the board of health in order to determine which branch of the city government will come to his aid in this regard.

All day long a stream of people passed through the morgue in an effort to identify the two charred bodies taken from the hotel yesterday morning, and throughout the day also a crowd was gathered about the unsightly wreckage that marks the spot where the fire trap once stood. Assistant Chief Dolan, on making his rounds this morning, discovered that there was still a blaze in the rear of one of the buildings on Eighth street, and dispatched a number of fire ladies to put it out.

Contractor on Scene

Visits were paid to the scene also by R. N. Wilson, the contractor who erected the building, and who may be called upon to explain why the hallways were narrow, and fire escapes confined to one side of the building only.

Two policemen guarded the ruins, one on Howard street and one on the Telegraph street side, and no one was allowed within.

It will probably take a week at least to clear away the debris sufficiently to determine whether or not there are any bodies still concealed.

PETERSEN LEFT ESTATE OF $10,000

Four Wills Are Filed by Heirs-at-Law in the Probate Court

The will of the late Andreas Petersen of San Leandro has been filed for probate in the Superior Court. It disposes of agricultural and personal property amounting to about $10,000, and the heirs-at-law are Thomas Peterson of San Leandro, and Charles Peterson of Oakland, son, and Mrs. Anna Watkins of Oakland, daughter, the daughter.

In the matter of the estate of the late Jimmie Page Jackson of Oakland, application for letters of administration has been filed by Charles L. Jackson of San Francisco, son of the deceased. The estate is valued at about $5000, and besides the petitioner, the heirs-at-law are Florence Jackson Carter and Jennie Jackson, daughters, residing at 498 Thirty-seventh street, Oakland.

Two Other Wills

Attorney A. F. St. Sure of Alameda has filed a petition for probate of the will of the late Hannah L. Collins of Alameda, whose estate is estimated to be worth about $8000. The heirs of the deceased are: John J. and Joe J. Whiting, brothers; Warren C. and Herbert F. Wilcox, nephews; and Mrs. Florence E. Bradley, Florence P. Wilcox and Mrs. Grace S. Olney, nieces, all of Massachusetts, and Nettie Parlin, niece, of Alameda.

William C. Paden of Alameda has applied for letters of administration of the estate of his mother, Flossie J. Paden, deceased of Berkeley, the estimated value of which is about $4000. Besides the petitioner the only heir is Agnes M. Paden, a daughter, of Alameda.

HEIRS CHARGE UNDUE INFLUENCE

Contest Over Will of the Late Thomas Belew of Alameda Is Started

A complaint contesting the purported will of the late Thomas Belew of Alameda has been filed in the probate department of the Superior Court in Peter Fox, Peter Clark, Alice Denner and Sarah Belew, nieces and nephews, respectively, of the testator.

The will in question, which was filed for probate on March 10, 1909, is dated February 9, 1908, and bears the signatures of Attorney Bernard P. Lamachet of San Francisco and Mrs. Ellen Lafferty, as witness. By this instrument deceased bequeathed and devised unto Grace Burgess, wife of George H. Burgess of San Leandro, his entire estate and named her sole executrix. In his will he left his testamentary powers entirely ignoring his alleged legitimate heirs.

Charges Are Made

The contestants charge that the document is not Belew's last will and testament and charge that Attorney Lamachet and Mrs. Lafferty, three hours before his death, presented an instrument to Belew which he was induced to sign under the representation that it was an agreement and contract provided for the transfer of his property and the care of him in his infirmities of his days that all the time he made his mark upon the instrument he was an weak in mind and body as not to understand the purpose of his act, and that for this and other reasons the purported will is a fraud and was secured under menace and undue influence.

Belew, who was also known as Ben Lafferty, was seventy years of age at the time he affixed his mark to the instrument.

Fire Chief Says Work Has Outgrown Salary Granted Years Ago

"I neither ask nor deny," said Chief Ball this morning, when asked if it were true that he contemplated leaving his job unless he were given an increase in pay. "Then looking at the old man for a moment, the fire fighter said: "I can tell you that if they are going to have me remain at the head of this department something must be done for me." In the evening, it was presided over by Mrs. James G. Quinn, who was the most gracious and charming hostess of the night. Guests and Chaperones dominated the place, which has an assortment of useful things. Mrs. Quinn was assisted during the evening by Miss Anna McDonough, Miss Mary McDonough and Miss Harry.

The Bread Problem.

The complaints about the high price of bread contrast strangely with the complaints of the farmers a few years ago about the low price of wheat.

Mr. Bryan used to think dollar wheat represented the ideal of national prosperity, and to reach that ideal he proposed to debase the dollar. Now wheat is selling in Chicago and St. Louis at $1.50 a bushel, and the price is hitting the public stomach pretty hard. The high price of bread has obscured the tariff question because it presents a more immediate problem to such a great number of people. The wage scale is intimately related with the amount of necessities the money will purchase. Hence the price of the farmers of the Chicago wheat pit are charging for their grain is a vital concern for the moment. It presents an issue that promises to become still more pressing in the future. It is a grim satire on Mr. Bryan's dollar wheat theory. Mr. Bryan wanted to make money cheap and bread dear, and hence he advocated a fifty-cent dollar.

But see how it has worked out. With a dollar worth one hundred cents, money is abundant and cheap, measured by the interest rate, but bread is high—so high as to create much distress in the great centers of population where the wage scale is lowest and the pressure on subsistence strongest. Nor is manipulation on the part of speculators responsible in the main for the high price of the staff of life. Speculative corners have undoubtedly advanced the price of wheat above the natural level, but shortness of supply and excessive demand have given speculators their opportunity. The industrial character of the country is changing. With the mighty impulse given to manufacturing and commerce, the cities have grown beyond the wildest dreams of a generation ago. The vast hives in New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, Boston, Baltimore, St. Louis and many other large cities are increasing the demand on the soil faster than agriculture develops and expands. The workshop has called so many from the plow that tillage has not kept pace with the demand for subsistence. The abandoned farm is now taking its revenge.

A few years ago Americans could not understand the feeling displayed in England over the weight of the penny loaf. They are beginning to understand now. Their comprehension will be still further sharpened in the near future. How to virtual the country is a more acute problem than populating it despite the race suicide alarmists.

Another Trust in Trouble.

If such combinations as have been organized primarily for a greater economy in the output of their special products had respected the laws governing the latter, there would doubtless have been fewer prosecutions and less public opposition to them on the ground that they are restraining trade. Everyone of the great trusts organized ostensibly for economy to producer and consumer has been caught red-handed violating statutory law. The Standard Oil Company came under the ban of the law, because it devised a means of controlling the source of raw material supply and the market for the refined product, coerced common carriers into rebating transportation rates and resorted to other methods of throttling competition. The sugar, tobacco, meat and steel trusts are in trouble for similar causes.

Now the Cudahy Packing Company of Kansas City, Missouri, has been detected defrauding the government of the tax imposed upon the coloring of oleomargarine, and thus underselling other manufacturers who have respected the law and driving them out of business.

The government seems to have secured accumulative proof of the company's dishonesty. Under the internal revenue laws colored oleomargarine must pay a tax of ten cents per pound, the uncolored product being taxed only one-quarter of a cent. Each package of oleomargarine marketed must bear the revenue stamp imposed on the grade to which it professes to belong.

The introduction of coloring matter into oleomargarine is done solely for the purpose of deceiving the consumer into the belief either that it is real butter or quite as good. Of course, it must bear the brand on its face, showing as the pure food law provides, that it is artificial butter, and the one-quarter cent revenue stamp on the uncolored product is a guarantee that it contains no foreign substance. But the Cudahy Packing Company played the reckless game, in order to stifle competition, deceiving the internal revenue officers and consumers by appearing in the colored product of their manufacture as uncolored which gave it an advantage in the market of nine and three-quarter cents per pound over the colored manufactured product of its competitors who respected the law. The Cudahy company was thus able to undersell them and drive them out of the trade.

The government seems to have worked up a complete case against the packing company, having gathered indisputable evidence of 737 independent violations of the law, each one of which is amenable to a penalty of $1000. And with this proof of fraud is the further proof that the dishonest practice of the corporation has been the means of defrauding the government out of $60,000 of internal revenue. The discovery of the fraud will probably cost the company $797,000, as well as the confiscation of its manufacturing plant, for which a suit is to be brought. The corporation richly deserves whatever penalty may be imposed. It took the chance of escaping detection for the sake of dishonest gain. It must stand the penalty of being found out. The case illuminates, however, the methods of the trusts.

The report that the price of wheat in the Chicago "pit" is soaring because there is a shortage of the grain in stock in the country is the veriest buncombe. It is the familiar cry which the professional "bull" in the "pit" raises. That the movement of the market upward is strictly artificial is proved by the fact that it has developed from gamble in futures—in May and July deliveries—and is not based on the present contents of the granaries of the country. If a shortage of stock existed that would have been generally known long ago. There is nothing so closely watched by every nation as its food supply.

The Young Men's Christian Association of San Francisco had to make an urgent appeal to Rockefeller, Morgan and other wealthy New York millionaires to contribute the $500,000 which is needed to rehabilitate after the calamity of 1906 which destroyed its building. It was to the credit of those wealthy men that the appeal was not in vain. But the Oakland Y. M. C. A. will take future pride in the fact that the money needed to furnish it with a building was all raised at home.

The selection of Oakland as the next place of meeting of the encampment of the department of California and Nevada of the Grand Army of the Republic is another proof that this city is conspicuous by the map.

Oakland Distinguishes Itself.

The ten days' canvass for the raising of $210,000 for the Young Men's Christian Association building fund came to a close at a late hour last night and the footing up of the list of the day's subscription demonstrated that Oakland had distinguished itself by contributing $11,500 in excess of the amount needed to carry out the association's plans. Indeed, Oakland has established a new record in money-raising for a worthy cause and in doing so has covered itself with glory. In no city of the size of Oakland, where the Young Men's Christian Association has been required to appeal to the generosity of philanthropic citizens for money to erect a suitable building for its use, have the funds been raised in so brief a period. The collection teams made a whirlwind campaign of it and their members were such enthusiastic and tireless workers it is no wonder that their efforts were crowned with success.

There existed, moreover, a strong public sentiment that Oakland's reputation at home and abroad was involved in the result. In a broad sense this was true. It would have been a standing reproach to a city of Oakland's pretensions, professions and wealth if the campaign had been a failure. A grand demonstration of civic pride has prevented any stigma of that kind attaching itself to its name.

The directors of the association are now in a position to proceed at once to carry out their plans. The building will be one of the handsomest blocks in the city and its interior appointments will be unequalled by any Y. M. C. A. building in the country, as it will contain the best features of the most modern structures of the kind elsewhere with additional original improvements. The association will take pride in the fact that every cent of the cost of its construction and equipment has been contributed by Oakland's citizens.

It may not be generally known, but it is nevertheless true, that the carrying out of many other costly and important enterprises in Oakland depended upon the results obtained in the Y. M. C. A. campaign. The latter's success is an assurance that these projected enterprises will be carried out at an early date without fail. The ten days' canvass for the $210,000 fund, therefore, involved the material interests and continued prosperity of Oakland in a very large degree.

PLUME CUT FROM HAT BY FALLING WINDOW.

FRUITVALE, April 17.—Mrs. Andrew Hosen of Oakland narrowly escaped serious injury by falling glass yesterday afternoon when a pane from the bay window in the office of Dr. J. Hamilton at the corner of Fruitvale avenue and East Fourteenth street fell to the sidewalk.

So narrowly did the glass escape striking Mrs. Hosen's head that it severed an ostrich plume from the hat of the unfortunate pedestrian. As the glass struck the sidewalk it broke with a startling crash and small pieces of glass were sent in all directions. No one was hurt or injured, but the flying glass was considered miraculous as the sidewalk was crowded at the time by many shoppers.

The cause of the window falling cannot be explained.

CONTRA COSTA ROAD MUCH IN NEED OF REPAIR

EDITOR TRIBUNE—Through the medium of your valuable paper I wish to draw the attention of the proper authorities of Contra Costa county to the disgraceful condition of the Contra Costa county road of the tunnel. The tunnel is dripping with water from the roof of the tunnel has formed pools and mud holes several inches deep from one side to the other for a distance of thirty yards, making the tunnel impassable for people on foot or bicycles, besides being dangerous for vehicles.

It was expected when the rainy season was over that the road surveyors would have had the road put in good shape, but up to the present no attempt has been made to make it safe and easy for travel.

Hoping this will arouse the authorities to their duties to the travelling public and taxpayers.

Union Revival Services to Be Started Sunday

First Christian and First Baptist Churches Unite in Evangelistic Revivals

Church notices for publication in this column must be in not later than Friday morning.

BEGINNING tomorrow evening in the First Baptist Church, corner Telegraph and Jones street, union evangelistic services under the auspices of the First Christian and First Baptist Churches are to be conducted by Rev. Charles A. Young of Chicago and Edward T. Nesbit.

Rev. Mr. Young combines in an unusual degree the elements of evangelistic fervor and ripe scholarship, having been formerly identified in a prominent way with the establishment of Bible teaching in a number of State universities, notably the University of Virginia, Ann Arbor, Michigan, the University of Missouri and others.

Mr. Nesbit is a man of wide experience as a gospel singer and a chorus leader. These men belong to the Christian Church and are enthusiastically supported by the Rev. Thomas A. Boyer and the First Christian congregation, of which he is pastor, in these meetings.

Rev. J. H. Voasburgh and the people of the First Baptist Church welcome the coming of these men quite as cordially as they were members of their own community in their coming promises to add much to the spirit of union that is already receiving such unmistakable emphasis along all lines of religious advance all over the country.

A Brief Sermon for Busy Readers

REPENTANCE

Except ye repent ye shall all likewise perish. Luke 13:3.

THE great and crying need of the hour is for consecrated and fearless preachers of the Gospel—men of John the Baptist type—who shall go through our streets and our cities sounding forth the clarion call of God to the people. "Except ye repent ye shall all likewise perish."

As we look around us and see the great masses of people forgetting God and living indifferent to His claims and purposes, spending their precious time in the pursuit of the passing pelf, fleeting pleasure of this world, and yet realize that these people have souls that are candidates for Heaven or hell, and that ordinary means and methods fail to reach them, something extraordinary should be used to arouse them, and to get them to face these eternal verities.

From the beginning to the end of God's Word we recognize the fact that without real heart-repentance there can be no deliverance from sin and no salvation. Sunday school class of little girls was asked the question, "What is repentance?" One girl said: "Please, sir, it is being sorry for sin," and another added quickly, "It's being sorry to quit."

When people wake up to the sin of wrongdoing repentance is usually the first thought of their hearts. They feel it is the right thing; nay, the only thing they can do. And repenting and turning their back on sin, and looking away by faith to the Son of God pleading the merits of the all-atoning blood, they shall have the consciousness that their sin is which were many are all forgiven. To our mind there is no more beautiful word picture in the Bible or one that has made a greater impression on the human race than the story of the broken-hearted repentance of the prodigal son. "Likewise, I say unto you, there is joy in the presence of the angels of God over one sinner that repents."

Ensign James Muir is in command of the Salvation Army Corps in Oakland.

Evening subject: "Divine Protection." Sunday School at 9:45 a.m. in "I Love You" people's meeting at 6:30 p.m.

THE SUMMER draws on apace, the vacation time usually commencing with the close of the university year, that date coming early in May.

One might know that "good times" were really here by the preparations for the long summer vacation days.

From New York comes the word that the hotels have never in the history of their various careers, done so large a business. They have been unable to supply the great demand for luncheons, dinners and afternoon tea, and not in years have there been so many strangers in town.

The greatest exodus to Europe ever known is on for this year, and if one has not already made reservations one's chance of crossing the Atlantic in comfort is at an end.

Most people have now very well defined plans for the summer, and house parties are everywhere being arranged. The thrifty hostess will have her lists for the summer made up early, so that she may have the most desirable of guests in her summer home. And certain popular girls find themselves early in May with their summer quite well arranged.

Our country homes are rapidly growing in importance, as was to be expected in a climate like ours. Some of our leading families spend all the vacation time out of town, and for those who have not the children's education to attend to, the country home becomes the real home.

It is only following out the custom that has long prevailed in Europe. It is the town house that is "closed most of the year, and the country place that is really home.

The London season begins in May and lasts till the end of July; town houses are opened, and all of England's aristocracy make an effort to be represented at the Queen's drawing room.

Of course, the richest and most prominent Americans there are the Whitelaw Reeds and Mrs. John W. Mackay. Indeed, Mrs. Mackay, with her daughter and her sister, represent a trio of the best-known American women in Europe.

Others who are always popular in the London season are Lady Cunard, Lady Hesketh and Mrs. John Ward, all of whom are well known here.

Lady Cunard was Maude Burke, the adopted daughter of Carpenter, who was so well known in California's pioneer days.

Lady Hesketh was Flora Sharon, and Mrs. Ward was Jean Reid, both of whom have many friends in San Francisco.

The Princess Hatzfeldt, who was the adopted daughter of the late Collis Huntington, is often in London, and she seldom comes to America.

Mrs. Dominguez of London, who is very stunning, was Miss Murphy of San Francisco, and her sister, Lady Wolsey, has always been specially good to the California friends who find themselves in London. Lady Waterlow's old home was in Napa, and she and her sister are most popular in exalted aristocratic circles.

Among the Californians who have many friends in England are Mrs. E. G. Steele and her daughter, Muriel.

They lived in England for three years and Miss Steele was regarded as the most beautiful American girl who had been presented to the Queen in many seasons.

Mrs. Andrew McCreery, formerly so well known in California, has made her permanent home abroad, and entertains many house parties of distinguished guests each summer, in her delightful chateau on the banks of picturesque Lake Como.

Miss Violet Whitney spends a great deal of time with her aunt, Mrs. McCreery, at the latter's home in Europe.

California gold has done so much in a social way for its owners that one is always interested in news of the latter.

Mrs. Clarence Mackay is abroad studying European phases of the Equal Suffrage question. She is now in Paris, and when she returns to New York she is to open business offices in the Manhattan building.

Mrs. C. E. Alexander and her daughters are spending a few weeks in Paris, and then they will open their summer home at Tuxedo, having with them for a short visit Miss Jessie Crocker, who is to go on to London, where she will be the guest for the London season of Ambassador and Mrs. Reid.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Martin are lingering late in Paris, where they are delightfully established, and they have no intimation of returning to America for some time.

Marble House, the famous Newport palace, is being prepared for the Belmonts, and Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt Jr. and her children are to be guests there in the coming summer.

WILL WAIT FOR SUMMER SCHOOL.

Many women prominent in the social set are planning a late departure from town this summer, remaining for the summer school at Berkeley. Many came from across the bay last year, and from San Jose, and the classrooms are entirely too small to accommodate all who wanted to study with the distinguished lecturers from Yale and Harvard. The Brown-ing course was of the greatest interest, and the weeks of study were the most profitable of the year.

But the hats, as well as everything else, are all in this day's work, and if some of them have given us a hearty laugh this spring, so much the better for us all. And the wonderful flower show they represent is inspiring and in keeping with the spring spirit of the hour.

WILL WAIT FOR SUMMER SCHOOL.

The one universal theme in the Smart Set just now is, of course, "hats." No matter what subject may engross one's attention, it invariably leads to the same subject, for the discussion of hats seems endless, and the same conclusion is invariably arrived at, that never, for many seasons, have hats been uglier. Of course, sensible people will not wear the homeliest of the models, but the best of the many imported hats are bad enough. One hears on every side of the growing independence of women, and it shows itself in nothing so much as in the independence in regard to clothes. The woman of today will not wear the things that are unbecoming to her, and the modistes of Paris have to take that fact into consideration.

A significant paragraph proves that assertion, for one reads:

"The strange part of the whole matter is that nothing else can be seen in the smart hat shops of the Rue de la Paix but inverted waste baskets, while not one can be seen in the tea rooms of the Ritz, the Elysee Palace or Kumpelmeyers."

The result will probably be that the whole cargo of hats will be sold to American buyers, and they will be dumped into shops in America where women may be persuaded that they are buying the latest Parisian fancies."

There is this to be said for them, however; they make a perfect riot of color to brighten the spring days.

Hats are simply laden with flowers and fruit is much in evidence. The woman who wore a banana on her hat certainly obtained all the attention which she desired, and one could believe the story of the horse who quietly ate the cherries from the hat of a passer-by.

But the hats, as well as everything else, are all in this day's work, and if some of them have given us a hearty laugh this spring, so much the better for us all. And the wonderful flower show they represent is inspiring and in keeping with the spring spirit of the hour.

There is this to be said for them,

ever since the earthquake the Wil-iams have lived at Alden Farm in Fruitvale, and their home has been the center of all the family gatherings of the past three years.

The Tom Magees are at the Hush in Fruitvale and one hears of their great devotion to baby Tom Magee, who is a fine little fellow, and who looks exactly like his father, Tom Magee Jr.

RETURN FROM THE COUNTRY.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Chickering and Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Hall returned to town this week, having spent five very delightful weeks at the Henshaw ranch in Mendocino county. They are four most popular young people, a quartet with many friends.

Mr. Hiram Hall has quite recovered from the very serious illness of last winter and he is looking exceptionally well.

F. M. WILSON IS GOING ABROAD.

According to Mr. Frank Wilson's trip abroad one reads: "Frank M. Wilson, vice-president of the First National Bank of Berkeley, is to leave April 15th for an extended tour of Europe. The length of Mr. Wilson's stay on the continent will be indefinite, but will extend at least over several months. He will study European banking methods while abroad, and visit various points of interest."

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Wilson will occupy the large residence in North Berkeley during Mr. Wilson's absence.

APRIL A MOST ROMANTIC MONTH.

April bids fair to go down in history as one of the most romantic months of the passing year. There are so many weddings to chronicle, so many engagements to announce, so many complimentary dates for happy brides-elect.

An important April announcement, one of much interest to many families, is the engagement announced this week of Miss Clara English and Mr. Edgar Hinds. The intimate friends of the bride-elect have known of the engagement for some days, having, of course, been told of it before the general public, but formal announcement was made of the engagement at a card club to which Miss English and her sisters belong.

The young girls were the guests of Miss Edith Beck on Tuesday afternoon, and the announcement engagement added a special interest to the occasion.

Miss Clara English is the second daughter of Mrs. William English and the late William English.

The latter was for many years one of the best known men in the State, dominating the Democratic party, and at its head always—a historic personage. Everyone knew generous, gentle-hearted William English, and his home was one of the most prominent in the State.

He was a man of wonderful personality, and his friends were legion, and many warm memories cluster around his name. He was one of the most prominent men of his time, and the announcement of his daughter's engagement is of special interest to many representative families, not only in our own city, but on the coast.

The girls of the English household are all splendid types of the American girl; very helpful, with fine ideals, lovely, sincere, true girls, the unspoiled girls of whom their friends are so fond.

Miss Clara English is very pretty, and a charming girl, and many good wishes are finding their way to her this week.

One hears much in praise of Mr. Hinds, who is a good business man, and who promises to develop a future worth while.

The wedding of Miss Clara English and Mr. Hinds will be a date of the late summer, and the future home of the young people will be near Santa Rosa.

MISS REIGELMAN'S GREAT SUCCESSES.

Eastern papers are full of accounts of Mabel Reigelman, the charming Oakland singer, who has definitely "arrived" after four years of study in Germany. It means a great deal for an artist to achieve success in Germany—more than the average American girl may suppose. Our American girls go abroad in large numbers, and they study for years, but very few of them ever achieve success in the great capitals of Europe.

Returning travelers are bringing many interesting stories of Mabel Reigelman; they tell us of the delightful personality she has developed, of the poise of the cultured manners, but above all, they tell us what her four years of study has done for a voice that was wonderful to begin on.

Of course Mabel Reigelman is fortunate in the prestige which Madame Gadschi gave her—Gadschi being one of the most successful of the world's artists. Many people sing man things, but Gadschi carries off all honors in the splendid Wagnerian music.

And to have been a protege of Madame Gadschi abroad meant unusual opportunities for any young singer.

Mabel Reigelman has been part of the Thauscher household in Stettin, Gadschi's real name being Thauscher. The Thauschers have one daughter, Charlotte, a most delightful young girl, and she has been quite like a sister to Mabel Reigelman.

Mabel Reigelman's engagement in Grand Opera at the Stettin Opera House requires exceptional hard work from so young a girl. Last month she sang in the Wagner roles, scoring well in Die Walkure, taking the part of Brunhilde's sister, and winning much praise from the German critics for her work.

Next week she is to sing in Traviata, and after the exacting Wagnerian operas all other music must seem easy.

Mabel Reigelman will come home in May for a visit of a few weeks, but her contract calls for several months more in Germany, so she must return to her work abroad early in the autumn. She has spent the last four summers with the Thauschers at their beautiful country home, but this year the sweet singer's heart is bad, for she is coming home to the mother whom she loves so dearly, as to the friends to whom she has been so loyal.

One hears much in praise of Mr. Hinds, who is a good business man, and who promises to develop a future worth while.

"The House of the Seven Gables" is one of the most charming of Hawthorne's stories, and "Brown Gables" bids fair to write many chapters in history, some of them breathing the spirit of true hospitality.

Mrs. Williams entertains in a most delightful manner in her beautiful home, and is exceptionally kind to her young girl friends.

She was the hostess at a very enjoyable luncheon last week, given at her home, and among her guests from ment, and every good work has been helped, and some of our leading philanthropists pushed to success by the generosity of these well known families.

Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Alexander are carrying on the good work wherever they can, and are making their influence felt along many lines for the betterment of others.

They are of the younger generation, and are using wisely and well the fortune which is theirs. "Brown Gables" is a home founded on the right ideals, and a welcome awaits there the many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Alexander.

The "at home" bids fair to be the jarrest and most important social gathering of the spring. "Brown Gables" is situated high up on the hill slopes of Piedmont, and from every window there looks out upon the most superb views—a wonderful panorama, almost unequalled anywhere in the world.

This upper range of hills marks a section destined to be historic among beautiful Oakland homes, for here are being established many picturesque residences, most of them the center of much social entertainment. Among the leading homes are those of Mrs. Isaac Requa, Frank L. Havens, Wickhur Havens, Edward Engs, A. A. Moore Jr., Granville Abbott, Harry Maxwell, W. E. Sharon, Herbert Brown, Henry Nicholls, Oscar E. Long.

Work on the Oscar Long home is being pushed rapidly forward, and General and Mrs. Long hope to be established in their home sometime in July. On the lower Piedmont hills is being erected the very picturesque home of the F. B. Dallams, who are among our city's most hospitable entertainers. The Dallams have been staying in Berkeley during the spring months, but they hope to take possession of their new home some time in the early summer.

MRS. BENNET IS VISITING THE STEELES.

Mrs. E. L. G. Steele has as her guest this week her sister, Mrs. Benet, who is spending some days at the Steele home here.

"Brown Gables" is the name of the beautiful new home in the Piedmont hills recently completed for the Alexanders, and in which now they are established. It is one of the most picturesque of the larger new homes on the hills, and its architectural design is worthy of all praise.

MRS. HAVENS A LOYAL FRIEND

Another luncheon of much interest was that given by Mrs. Wickham Havens at her Piedmont home this week to a coterie of congenial friends enjoying the hospitality of this popular hostess.

Few young matrons take so much trouble to entertain their friends as Mrs. Havens, and at the close of the season she has made welcome every one of her friends at some luncheon or dinner.

Mrs. Havens is very loyal to her friends, very true and sincere and she is one of the most beloved of the younger matrons.

She is a delightful home keeper but she might also be one of the most popular of social leaders, for she has such a wise intelligent grasp of social affairs, such judgment and such kindly care for others, and a generous heart, and what more could one require in any social leader?

COOKS TO VISIT CALIFORNIA.

Mr. and Mrs. William Gardner Cook (Helen Bell), whose home is now in New York, are coming to California for the summer and will spend part of the time with friends in Oakland.

MANY LUNCHEONS IN PAST WEEK.

Two luncheons have been of special interest this week, the hostesses being Mrs. Lee Cole Burnham and Miss Rose Kales.

The Burnhams have taken a very attractive apartment at Linda Vista and Mrs. Burnham entertains often in the happy, informal way which is most appreciated by one's friends.

Mrs. Burnham's guest of honor was Mrs. George Cartwright of London who is visiting her brother Mr. T. Arthur Crellin.

Mrs. Cartwright was formerly Miss Crellin, the eldest daughter of the late John Crellin whose home on Oak street was for many years one of the most prominent of the well known Oakland homes. The three daughters of the household are married, with homes elsewhere, but they return at intervals for a delightful visit among their old Oakland friends.

Mrs. Cartwright has been the recipient of many favors during her stay in Oakland, and one of the most delightful was the compliment planned for her by Mr. Burnham. A dozen guests, mutual friends of Mrs. Cartwright and of the hostess, were invited to luncheon, and an interesting game of bridge added to the charm of the afternoon.

Miss Kales' luncheon was given at her home on Lake street in honor of Miss Harriet Meek the dear bride-to-be for whom there has been so much social entertainment.

The guests included besides Miss Meek the young girls who are to be attendants at her wedding among whom is Miss Kales and a few other intimate friends were added to the list.

As the guests were nearly all good bridge players a game of bridge was planned for the later afternoon hours.

SHORT TRIPS ARE AGAIN IN VOGUE.

Short spring expeditions are quite the order of the hour the lovely spring flowers, and the beautiful spring verdure making alluring pictures, so that one steams away from the day's work following the insistent spirit of spring.

Mr. and Mrs. Williams G. Henshaw and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Chickering are leaving town this week for a few days at their country place in Mendocino county.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Walsh and Miss Taylor are among those who spent restful days recently at Del Monte.

Dr. and Mrs. Chamberlain motored down to Del Monte, enjoying a rest at that charming and historic hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Hall and Miss Sudie Hall are enjoying a most delightful trip abroad and are not planning to return to Oakland until late in the summer.

Mr. J. C. Hampton has rented her home at Piedmont and is spending some days at the Kew Route Inn Mrs. Hampton and Master Jack Hampton will leave for the East in a few days and after a brief stay in New York they will sail for Europe where they are to spend the summer.

ALUMNI DINNER AT HIGH SCHOOL.

One of the largest social events of the spring days will be the Alumni dinner of the high school for which very elaborate preparations are being made.

The high school has been established now for so many years that it has contributed largely to many sides of Oakland's development and its influence is a prominent factor in a long line, and the "Alumni Dinner promises to be one of the most important social gatherings of the spring months.

PLEASURES OF EASTERDAY.

Easter brought many happy days to the children, since everyone plans nowadays delightful Easter surprises for them.

A charming Easter party was planned by Mrs. Oscar F. Long for her little daughters, the Misses Amy and Sally Long.

Thirty children were delightfully entertained at Highland, the beautiful old family home of the Requias, among them the children of the Mark Requias, the Granville Abbotts, the William Magees, the Mailer Scarles, the Dennis Scarles, the Henry Nicholls the Herbert Browns, the Wickham Havens, the Edward Engs the John Francis Smiths, the Youngbourns, the Harry Estill Millers the Harry Davis.

Some of the older people enjoyed the fun quite as well as the children and youthful enthusiasm is so splendid that it is fairly contagious. Among the older people who enjoyed the beautiful Easter pictures made by the happy children were Mrs. Jason Requa, Mrs. Mary Requa, Mrs. Mollie Conner, Mrs. Anita Thomson, Mrs. Henry Nicholls, Mrs. Harry Estill Miller, Mrs. Granville Abbott, Mrs. Youngbourn, Mrs. Mailer Scarles, Mrs. Dennis Scarles, Mrs. Frank Havens.

Mrs. Long planned all the details so perfectly that the Easter party proved for the children one of the most delightful of days one that bids fair in the future to make the loveliest of childhood's memories.

At one of the tables Amy Long and Amy Requa presided, two charming little hostesses they were, presiding with all due dignity, and at the head of the other table was daintily Sally Long, such a wonderful Easter table as there were! They were laden with every Easter favor of which one could imagine. They made one wish that old Father Time could put the clock back and one might be a child again. Such lovely, great big white chickens made the centerpieces, such wise chickens they were, so big and handsome, so suggestive of Easter, that the children looked up at them with the greatest admiration and even the older people were moved to express their appreciation.

There were rabbits and little chickens and fluffy yellow ducks and all sorts of surprises, decorating two of the most beautiful Easter tables of the season.

Miss Madeline Clay is to entertain next Tuesday at a dinner in honor of Helen's Easter banquet for her young guests, and after all, the refreshments are always "the real party."

And again the favors were all suggestive of Easter, and great was the joy of the young guests when they knew the favors were presents which they were to take home. Each child's basket was a famous study, with Easter eggs, rabbits, paper dolls and gnomes, one of the most fascinating baskets one might wish to see.

The children from many of the neighboring households were gathered at Highland for the Easter party, among them the children of the Mark Requias, the Granville Abbotts, the William Magees, the Mailer Scarles, the Dennis Scarles, the Henry Nicholls the Herbert Browns, the Wickham Havens, the Edward Engs the John Francis Smiths, the Youngbourns, the Harry Estill Millers the Harry Davis.

Miss Madeline Clay is to entertain next Tuesday at a dinner in honor of Miss Meek and Mr. Hawley the dinner to be given at Levelle's, the Trinity home of the Chavis.

Miss Clay's guests will include Miss Harriet Meek, Miss Clilda Meek, Miss Alice Albright, Miss Ailine Johnson, Miss Josephine Johnson, Miss Ruth Kales, Miss Rose Kales, Mr. Stuart Hawley, Mr. William Cavalier, Mr. Powell, Mr. Herold and Harriet Meek.

With that of fascinating Miss Gladys Church and Mr. Fletcher, and one heard it was a beautiful wedding in many ways.

Indeed, is the spring bride, for her home may represent the most wonderful decorations, for the earth is just blossoming into beauty these days and Dame Nature is very generous to the dear spring bride. All the homes have been most pictureque with wonderful color schemes, and laden with rare and lovely blossoms.

The Churches represent families well known in the history of California, those who have come down to us from pioneer days, and the wedding of this charming young daughter was, indeed, of interest to many. The largest of the April weddings up to date was that of Miss Curds and Mr. Keenan which took place at the family home of the Mehrmanns.

Miss Edith Harmon is to be the bride's maid of honor and among the attendants will be Miss Farietta Havens who is a cousin of the bride.

After the wedding there was a formal dinner and at its conclusion a large reception was given to the many friends of the family.

The billiard room showed most beautiful decorations, and very elaborate refreshments were served.

The wedding of Miss Lillian Reed and Mr. Sander was also very beautiful in many ways, the lovely decorations of the Reed home having called out compliments everywhere from the guests.

The wedding list included the relatives and intimate friends of the Reed and Sander families, and one heard that Lillian Reed made a very beautiful and attractive bride.

Jessie Reed, who is a most lovable girl, was her sister's maid of honor, and she was a charming study, in the prettiest of gowns. It was of pale pink muslin, and the costume was set off with a great bouquet of exquisite bridesmaid roses.

Mr. and Mrs. William Irvine Reed have sent out announcement cards announcing the marriage of their daughter Lillian to Mr. Henry Sander.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Sander are planning to spend part of the summer across the bay at Sausalito, and Mrs. Sander will no doubt make her young girl friends most happy in the delightful bungalow which is to be her summer home.

INFORMAL ENTERTAINING THE RULE

Though the first week after Easter has been a good deal of entertaining, most of it has been of an exceedingly informal nature, with short notice of anticipated good times. A majority of the dinners of the week, across the bay, have been in honor of Miss Margaret Newhall and Athole McLean.

The recent list of wedding began

Extra Money to Be Used to Add Another Story to Building

The eclipse has vanished from the great white disc over the entrance to the former headquarters of the Union National Bank at the corner of Twelfth Street and Broadway, which has indicated the liberality of the people of this city in their subscriptions toward the new building of the Y. M. C. A.

Today, there is not a shadow upon the surface. The lines radiating from center to circumference also have been effect, dropped from view and the circular dome shines like an early sun, the building a new day, a new career for the Y. M. C. A. in this city, because the campaign to raise $210,000 for the construction of the building in question has come to a close and the sum sought has been secured.

$10,500 Additional

More than that, there has also been raised $10,500 more than the amount desired, the grand total of subscriptions in ten days, closing at 10 o'clock last

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Tribune Thanked for Aid to Y. M. C. A. Building Campaign

OAKLAND, Cal., April 17, 1909.—EDITOR TRIBUNE. Dear Sir: No more efficient service was rendered the Young Men's Christian Association in its just completed campaign, than was rendered by your paper. Oakland is to be congratulated upon the organization, the energy put into the campaign, the splendid spirit of response from all classes of people in the city, and upon the splendid support given by your paper.

Oakland has established a new record in Y. M. C. A. money-raising, and be assured that the service rendered by your paper was a large factor in accomplishing this work.

Yours most cordially, O. E. HOLTE.

night, being $221,500. After the strenuous undertaking the workers and the management of the campaign stand like eagles in the sun, for the battle has been fought and won.

When this paper went to press yesterday there were twenty thousand dollars to be secured and that amount had to be obtained before 10 o'clock last night, otherwise the palm of leading all the cities in the country in the matter of spontaneous subscriptions toward a Y. M. C. A. building would have been lost to Oakland.

But long before the hour was reached it was apparent that the palm of victory belonged to this city, because the hour arrived with the news of subscriptions by the score of thousands which had been secured that Oakland had more than matched the coveted distinction.

Then there was a relaxation of the tense excitement, the nervous strain which had been imposed by the unrelenting efforts of the host of members and friends of the association, whose work has been so skillfully crowned with success.

This relaxation was indicated in a joyous shout, which had all the heartiness of men who knew what they had accomplished in their work, and the benefit which their efforts would confer upon the young men, not alone of this generation, but also of generations yet to be born.

Open-Air Rally

But the quarters of the committee, however, were inadequate to accommodate those who, although not active workers in the movement, were still desirous of supporting it, and accordingly an adjournment was taken to the Thirdway and Twelfth Street side of the structure, and there an open-air meeting was held, in which speeches were enthusiastically cheered by a couple of thousand people. There was a band on hand at the same time, which, when the announcement of the result of the ten days' work was made, broke into a rendition of the popular melody, "A Hot Time in the Old Town Tonight."

This musical effort is not of frequent rendition at entertainments under auspices of the Y. M. C. A., but, regardless of the fact, it was a one piece which was suited to the excited spirits of the men and the women, too, who were taking part in the jubilation.

Liberty of People

Then there was a series of speeches delivered in which the liberality of the people of the city was commended, may be exceeded when compared with that of some of the most noted and liberal communities in the country, some told of the legislation which the enterprise bore to the spirit which is the inspiration of greater Oakland, showing conclusively that, as Oakland was a unit on the question of municipal advancement, so was she of one mind in the matter of supplying a home for one of the most successful organizations for the moral uplift of the youth of the country.

Join in Song

After the speeches by General Secretary Stappert of the Denver Y. M. C. A. B. W. Wilcox, State secretary of San Francisco, who had charge and direction of the campaign, A. J. Adams, Harry Holcomb, Edward Stearns, secretary of the Oakland Chamber of Commerce, W. J. Lawrance, Capt. W. J. Peterson, and O. E. Holte, who presided, the band played a number of gay, gay tunes. "Onward, Christian Soldiers" and a thousand voices joined in the refrain as the gathering came to an adjournment and congratulations were the order of the hour.

The committee and the teams which had been bandied in the great work were not slow in commending the work, but when they put forth, for there was no member of the movement who failed to recognize the management and the leadership of State Secretary Wilcox, whose devotion, energy, and skill in his foresight and skill in the arrangement of details, had been so skillfully successful.

Expect More Money

The student making the highest record on the Remington typewriter is to receive a position of from $40 to $50 per month to begin with; also to $60 to $70 per month to begin with.

The student making the second highest record is to receive a position of from $40 to $50 per month to begin with.

The student making the third highest record is to receive a position of from $40 to $50 per month to begin with.

In addition to this the college offers a special gold medal to the student making the highest record in both shorthand and typewriting during the year.

The result of the great contest and enthusiasm is that the students are inspired to higher ideals and the standards of the entire stenographic department have been greatly raised.

POWDER SENT GIRL IS POISON BUT IS NOT ENOUGH TO KILL

MISS ALICE LAWTON.

"SORRY," SHE SAYS,
"I WAS JEALOUS"

Physician Whom She Loved Sent Drug, Now Miss Lausen Repents

"I know now that Dr. Fulton sent me the mysterious powder which I at first believed to be poison. My fears that he was trying to rid himself of me were prompted by jealousy. I realize today how I have wronged him and if he will forgive me I am ready to take him back; to become his wife if he so desires."

Stated Alice Lausen, the twenty-one-year-old young woman, who yesterday turned over to the police a box of white powder which analysis proves to be sulphate of zinc, stating that the drug had been sent to her through the mails from San Francisco on Tuesday without a word of explanation.

The drug was turned over to the city pharmacists yesterday afternoon. Miss Lausen afterwards confessing to Captain of Detectives Peterson that she had been given the powder to drink by Dr. Fulton, a man of this city, but more recently of San Francisco, whom the girl declared she has maintained intimate relations for some months until they quarreled two weeks ago.

Received Medicine Before

According to the city pharmacist, sulphate of zinc, while registered as a medicine in the quantity contained in the package, would not only be a powerful emetic, but, coupled with the girl's statement that she has frequently received medicine of a like nature from Dr. Fulton, clears up what promised to develop into a deeply laid poison plot.

Miss Lausen is rather a pretty girl with golden hair and blue eyes.

"I met him first at the home of my aunt, Mrs. Little Lausen, of Belmont, Aunt Lila, and when she was ill I was saying I saw him frequently.

"I Love Him"

"One day he told me that he was very much in love with me. We were out together for the day and before we returned home I confessed to him that I returned home. I confessed to him that I returned home. But two weeks ago my aunt told me I would have to see the doctor up because she did not believe him to be a proper companion for me. But I love him and am willing to marry him."

The committee and the teams which had been bandied in the great work were not slow in commending the work, but when they put forth, for there was no member of the movement who failed to recognize the management and the leadership of State Secretary Wilcox, whose devotion, energy, and skill in his foresight and skill in the arrangement of details, had been so skillfully successful.

Powder Is Analyzed

Captain of Detectives Peterson is quoted as saying:

"I had the powder analyzed by the best authority in Oakland. It is sulphate of zinc, and that it would not only be an emetic but, coupled with the girl's statement that she has frequently received medicine of a like nature from Dr. Fulton, who is the man who wrote the letters and sent the powder to Miss Lausen. If we attempted to get a case against this man in court we would see that he could say that he was treating the woman and that the powder was sent for medical purposes."

The best authority in Oakland to whom the captain refers is R. ## Claims It Will Kill

After reading the various reports, Dr. Remington said, "The local police claim that this poison will not kill. Simpson of Edinburg, and Wallstein of Dresden, will show that it can kill. It will work as an emetic because it is probably an irritant poison. Dr. Fulton, even if he did not send it with intent to kill the girl, was guilty of criminal intent. It is my opinion that the reports are true. It is my opinion that Fulton, knowing that it was a powerful irritant poison, sent it with the idea of that irritant paramount in his mind, for it could not easily kill her."

Congress Not to Pass ANY WHITE SLAVE LAWS

WASHINGTON, April 17.—Further attempts on the part of Congress to regulate the white slave trade by punishing persons guilty of harboring an alien woman for immoral purposes, have been abandoned in view of the recent decision of the Supreme Court of the United States, declaring unconstitutional a portion of the immigration act of 1907, relating to this subject.

"When we went the provision in the law against the harboring of such persons," Representative Bennett of New York, who fathered the bill in the House, said today, "we recognized that it would probably be declared unconstitutional. But we wanted to leave no stone unturned to support this measure. With that point of view, we had the Department of Justice draft a clause which might be constitutional, but which did not prove to be."

EXCURSION TO UKIAH

The Northern Pacific announces an excursion to Ukiah on Sunday, April 26. This is the most popular excursion run in any railroad in the State. The ride is through Mayac, Santa Rosa, Russian River and Ukiah valleys, and at this time of the year it is a most delightful trip to see the wild roses being in blossom and the wild flowers in full bloom. The trains pass through a veritable bed of wild flowers. The trip can be had in absolute comfort, as no ticket insurance is required, and there are no more tickets sold than there are seats provided. The fare for the round trip is only $2.50, including a round trip at any new city tickets, $2.50 Market Street, and at the office, $2.50 Market Street, and from San Francisco, $2.50. Leaving San Francisco at 8 a.m. and from Ukiah 5 p.m.

TAFT INCLUDES ALASKA IN HIS JOURNEY

TO INAUGURATE NOY AT PUBLIC CEREMONY

To Stop at San Francisco on Return From the Far North

TO PASS HOT MONTHS ON COUNTRY GOLF LINKS

Year's Proposed Trip to Cover Nearly All Parts of the United States

WASHINGTON April 17.—President Taft, who believes that the chief magistrate of the nation should keep in close touch with the people as the duties and requirements of the office admit, is planning a notable trip during the late summer and early autumn, providing Congress decides to continue the annual appropriations of $25,000 for traveling expenses allowed during the closing year of the Roosevelt administration.

The plans for the summer as far into the heated term as August 1 have been completed. Taft will leave Washington as soon as he can arrange matters after the adjournment of Congress, which will probably be June 1. The President will go direct from the White House to his summer home at Woodbury, Point Berry, Mass., and will spend two months or more there as quietly and as free from official worry as possible.

To Play Golf

Taft will devote much of his vacation to golfing and motoring and perhaps will take a short cruise along the northern coast. The reassembled Atlantic fleet of sixteen battleships will return to the New England coast during the summer and the President undoubtedly will want to see some of the work of the Ironclads.

The trip the President desires to make to the West during the late summer will be entirely too expensive to be paid for out of his own pocket. An outline of the proposed itinerary has been given by a high railroad official and a estimate requested. It is said the cost would be in the neighborhood of $1,000 to $17,000.

To Visit Alaska

If he goes at all, the President will include Alaska in the journeys sailing from Seattle probably on a vessel of the law's revenue cutter service. No President has ever visited the far north-ern territory which for so long has been a part of the United States.

The President has been invited to and is particularly anxious to attend the following gatherings:

The annual encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic at Salt Lake City.

The Pan-American Congress at Denver.

The National Irrigation Congress at Spokane and the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific Exposition at Seattle.

Southern Trip

In addition to his proposed visit to the Rocky Mountain States and to the Pacific coast the President's tentative plans for the trip include a long swing through the southwest and the heart of the south itself.

Many of the vessels of the Pacific fleet which includes eight fine armored cruisers of the type of the North Carolina and Montana, which Taft used on his recent trip to Panama, will be stationed

NEW CHARTER CLUB ASKS HODGEHEAD TO MAKE REPLY

Is He Attorney for the Western Union?

BERKELEY, April 17.—The Citizens' New Charter Club has written an open letter to Beverly L. Hodgehead, candidate for mayor, asking him if he is an attorney for the Western Union Telegraph Company. The new charter provides that no employee of any public service corporation shall hold office, and the charter club is anxious to learn if Hodgehead is disqualified from holding office as the first mayor under it.

The letter was forwarded to Hodgehead today to his office in San Francisco.

His answer is expected before next Tuesday evening when the executive committee of the New Charter Club will meet to discuss the matter.

"Yours sincerely,"

MONEY ALL GONE; LAYDON LEFT HER

Wife Is Granted Divorce From Son of Wealthy San Francisco Contractor

When Frances Olivia Pauleo was married in marriage to James A. Laydon of Dubuque, the wealthy San Francisco contractor in that city on October 1, 1903, she was 16 years old. In her own right of $60,000 which came to her through inheritance.

According to the testimony of Mrs. May Murphy, she was 16 years old in her suit for divorce and restoration of her maiden name, and in the court in which she was granted her divorce, it was 16 years old.

Mrs. Murphy told that nothing that she said to her husband when he left her, and he was confined to his bed, caused her to leave him to his self.

This was in August 1904. Laydon returned to the home of his parents at 1522 Colton Gate in San Francisco, and although he was confined to his bed, he still resided there until he was granted his divorce.

GOSSIP FROM THE SAN FRANCISCO WEEKLIES

A SOCIAL WAR SOUTH OF US

The revolution which threatened to disrupt society down the peninsula has been averted after all, and instead of battle, murder and sudden death, all is quiet and serene. The would-be combatants admit now that it was all a mistake, but there was a time when it looked as though a proposal to arbitrate would have precipitated hostilities. Burlingame was prepared to wipe San Mateo off its social map, and San Mateo was equally ready to assert its ignorance of even the name of Burlingame. Like most social wars, the origin of the disagreement was trivial enough, and nothing more serious than a slight difference of opinion. It seems that, according to the views of some, the Burlingame men made themselves too much at home in El Cerrito Club, where they were exempt from dues as they were not members. The San Mateotes, who lent their financial support to both clubs, felt that they were being imposed upon and took no pains to conceal their feelings. That is one version. Another is that Burlingame butted in to a private polo game on El Cerrito field and resented the intimation that their company was not desired. When the San Mateotes rose in their wrath and ordered them to decamp the Burlingamites refused to go, and the more they were urged the more stubbornly they determined to remain. Then San Mateo decided to build a high wall around their field so that Burlingame should not enjoy even a look over the top, and its guarded gate was to give admittance to none not provided with an invitation or protected by the password. San Mateo was represented by the Tobins, while Francis Caroian was official spokesman for Burlingame, and there were no signs of a truce. When the English team came north, however, it was the guest of both clubs, and for decency's sake the signs of strife had to be concealed. Since their departure there has been no digging up of the war hatchet, and either a permanent truce of peace, satisfactory to both parties, has been signed, or else they have decided that it was all a mistake and best forgotten for at the polo game last Sunday the Burlingame men were the guests of San Mateo, and the clouds of fragrant smoke which ascended from the clubhouse porch gave evidence that the pipe of peace had been circulated. —Town Talk.

AN EXEMPLARY CITIZEN

By the term of the will of the late Jacob Hart Neff, former Lieutenant-Governor of this State, $11,000 out of an estate roughly appraised at $100,000 is left to charity; something over one-tenth, therefore of all that a man, by a lifetime of hard work and industry, had been able to accumulate, left to worthy causes. That is an example of citizenship of which too much cannot be said. It only goes to evidence what those who knew Mr. Neff in life have always known—that no kinder-hearted, broader-minded, honest or upright citizen ever entered politics in this State than "Honest Jake" Neff.—The Wasp.

ANENT PEARLS OF MISS CROCKER

The most toothsome bit of gossip that has mayonnaised the tea sandwiches is the news that Jennie Crocker's pearls have been found. The fact did not float into my inkstand, along with the unauthentic flotsam and jetsam of gossip that is constantly carried to shore on the crest of a rowdy wave. It was told to me by some one who can use the Burlingame crest on her stationery, and has a first name acquaintance with all the principals involved. Yet I have found that even information that has been entered under the Pure Food and Drugs Act may often contain some deleterious preservative. So it may be that this will not stand the test. However, I give it to you on the word of a Burlingame—and now to our mutton with pearl sauce!

My informant tells me that every one intimately connected with the pearl affair is keeping the recovery a deep, dark secret. Miss Crocker is not appearing in her necklace. Even with her simplest gingham frock she abstains from adding the finishing touch of a $50,000 necklace. But she is going to Europe very shortly, and when she returns, if a string of lovely pearls is clasped round her fair neck when she appears at a masquerade as Bertha the Kitchen Maid, every one will naturally suppose a new necklace has been purchased to make the costume truly real to life. By my friend, Miss Burlingame, insists that the pearls will be the very same ones that made Miss Crocker's school-girl costume at the last masquerade so very convincing.

Then why all this secrecy? If the pearls have been discovered? Well, you see, the "third degree" was handed around pretty generously among suspected employees, and it would be uncomfortable to have to come out now and confess that all the while those innocent men were being tortured the pearls were snugly coiled in jewel box.

At last we have reached the choker out of our mutton—swallow it without any mint sauce, please, as the sauce has vinegar, and vinegar and pearls, you know dissolve with delight in each other's company.

Well, then, the pearls were found in the jewel box of the young matron who is Miss Crocker's best friend. They were discovered by the young matron herself, and the fact immediately communicated to Miss Crocker—and then an erring maid remembered that she had put the pearls in the wrong box! It was decided to screw the lid down on the box, and keep the prying public out, but Miss Burlingame tells me that in a certain right little, tight little set, the straight of the story is believed to be just as I have written it.—News Letter.

POPULAR ARTIST WEDS

The marriage of Charles Rollo Peters to Mrs. Constance Easley, a beautiful and wealthy Eastern widow, has created quite a pleasurable stir in society, where the gifted artist is highly popular. The bride is not known here, but is enthusiastically spoken of by the members of the artist's family, who include his mother, Mrs. Charles Peters, his sister, Mrs. Robert J. Woods, and a niece, Miss Elizabeth Woods, one of the popular debutantes of the season. "Charley's luck" has been proverbial among his friends who have been heard to remark good-naturedly, though, that it stayed right with him concerning the widow whose comeliness and vivacity are enhanced in the minds of such vulgar persons as consider those things, by the possession of a comfortable fortune. Peters, though, doesn't need to be dependent on any one but himself. For a long time he has been running neck and neck with Keith in his sales, and during the past fall realized handsomely.—The Wasp.

THE BOYISH BOSTON GIRL

With the exit of the English polo team to foreign parts Burlingame would once more have resumed its Sabbath calm were it not for the presence of the distinguished and unique Miss Eleanor Sears of Boston, the "horsiest" young lady that ever rode to hounds or jumped a hurdle. Miss Sears, despite her boyish ways and her penchant for the sports of men, is really a most attractive girl with all the grace of heart of the most lovable of her sex. In a dinner gown she is not at her ease, but in the saddle or engaged in any athletic pastime she is at her best, and she always cuts a picturesque figure in her neat mannish costume. Last Saturday all Burlingame sat up and took notice when she arrived at the polo game in short overcoat and knee breeches and with a masculine nod here and there threw herself flat on her back on the grass to watch the game. She whistled like a boy and cheered the players on to victory. Incidentally she shouted to Walter Hobart the startling news of an accident of a strictly personal nature with reference to her costume which almost took that gentleman off his feet. After the game she "stood treat" like one of the boys. Last week the reluctant polo enthusiasts permitted the dashing Eleanor to take a hand in the sport, and I hear that she played a dandy game.—Town Talk.

A PRESIDENT'S WIDOW

There is one figure on the Boardwalk at Atlantic City which is of never-ending interest to those who come from far and wide for rest and recreation. It is that of Mrs. Grover Cleveland, who is spending the post-Lenten season there with her daughter, Marion, and Esther, and her son, Richard Cleveland. Interesting but pathetic is the former bride and beauty of the White House, who wanders about the shore and on the Boardwalk, making no acquaintances, and rarely speaking to any one but her children. Jewel collecting is a pastime of Mrs. Cleveland; not those rare and costly jewels with which society women bedeck themselves for fashionable functions, but the unique and curious little unset semi-precious gems which have recently come into popularity and of which she has an interesting collection. Every morning Mrs. Cleveland may be seen strolling into the shops which line the Boardwalk, and when she enters the proprietor takes from the cases his choicest stones for her inspection, not because she is Mrs. Cleveland, for not one out of twenty who speak to her is aware that the modest, black-robed woman who displays such rare knowledge of these matters is the widow of Grover Cleveland, but because of her interest and appreciation of the jewels themselves. Her daughters accompany her on many of her walks, but she is more often seen alone. Esther Cleveland, who is now a young lady of some sixteen years, is a tall, slim girl, who, while of a type which is distinctly pretty, shows no traces of the beauty for which her mother was famous some twenty years ago. Marion is shorter than her sister, but much like her. Both girls are in mourning for their father, and are not included in any of the gaiety which is going on about them. Richard Cleveland is a sturdy young chap, who looks after the welfare of his mother and sisters as well as a man.—The Wasp.

AN UNPROFITABLE PARTNERSHIP

The ladies of the Fabiola Hospital of Oakland are greatly disturbed because they failed to profit by the business arrangement which they entered into with the owners of a circus. They thought that a circus was the surest money maker of all the shows that traverse the pike. It is a hallowed tradition older than Burnum, as old as the rare shows of St. Bartholomew's that when a circus leaves town it takes with it all the money. The tradition is probably founded in fact—like many other traditions; and there is no substantial proof that the traditional habit of circuses was violated in this instance. In fact the circus with which the Fabiola ladies established a partnership did leave town with all the money in sight—and that is why the ladies are disturbed. They feel like the small boy that carried water to the elephant and was refused admittance to the show. They rooted for the circus from Dan (which is Berkeley) to Beersheba (which is Alameda); they sold tickets for "the greatest aggregation"; they neglected their homes; they planned and plotted and connived; and they were sure at last that he great tent would be filled from sawdust to guy ropes. But alas for the hope deferred that maketh the heart sick—the tent was full, but when the account of receipts was rendered the Fabiola dividend was an entirely negligible quantity. Whatever money was "in the house" stayed there and departed with the circus people when they folded their tent like the Arafis and silently stole away. Thereafter the ladies of Fabiola will devote their energy to something surer than a spring circus. They have not entirely lost their confidence in the money-making ability of a circus, but they have deduced from this sad experience that a good deal depends on the season. In the spring the fickle public's fancy turns to other things than circuses; it is in the fall that everybody goes to the circus. To everything there is a season, and a time to every purpose under the heaven: A time to be born and a time to die; a time to weep and a time to laugh; a time to grieve and a time to lose; a time to play polo at Burlingame and a time to play baseball in the vacant lot; a time to go to the theater and a time to go to the circus—and it wasn't the time to go to the circus. So the Fabiola ladies must pocket their loss while the circus folk pocket their profit, if there was any profit—which, in truth, the ladies shrewdly suspect.—Town Talk.

COAL TO DISAPPEAR

One of the Eastern magazines makes the statement that should the coal supply of the United States be cut off—that the great railroads would immediately stop. That the electric light and power systems of the great cities, all over the country, would stop. That steamships would be tied up in all the ports of the country, and, in fact, that all interchange of commodities would cease at once. Mails, trains, schools, the navy, foreign and internal trade—all would cease to exist. The trifling governing commercial advance would be annihilated—heat, light and power are the great factors. With coal eliminated all of these would cease to operate.—News Letter.

LOOKED INTO HIS HEART AND WROTE

From one of Jack London's friends I learn that he is alert in repartee. Said the makings of a nature-fakir to Jack one day: "You fellows make me tired—u and Ernest Seton Thompson—u going from dog to wolf, and from wolf to dog, barking back all the time on the identical old trail!" You ain't half as foxy as you think you are, or you'd take something out of the common to exploit, like me, and not be forever doing the same kind of animals to death. Great Caesar's ghost! but I've a bird of a subject undone, original, unique; no less than the Life History of a Goose!" "Ah!" said London, "I see—autobiography!"—Town Talk.

POOR MRS. EVANS!

Naval Constructor Evans' divorced wife, Maude, seems to be having a hard time of it. To those who seek it shall be given, even to satyry, whether they seek the spotlight or the deep, dark recesses of oblivion. Mrs. Evans was a foppish favorite once, and that early yearning for public plaudits has never quite left her. During the period of her divorce she displayed no particularly marked aversion to newspaper men, but rather seemed to welcome the highlight which they turned upon her. It would appear, though, that she has got about enough of it with "Captain" Jack Graham, the all-round scalawag who would have married her had not the police "pulled" his record on him. Possibly now Mrs. Evans will learn that the public press is a tickle jade to deal with and keep down a little.—The Wasp.

THE TAYLOR-ZANE SCANDAL

Whatever else may be truthfully said of Marie Zane and Northrup Cowles it certainly does them injustice to charge them with having entered into the marriage relation and withdrawn therefrom at the instigation and for the benefit of Talbot Taylor. The marriage and divorce of Marie Zane and Northrup Cowles took place long before the Californian girl met Talbot Taylor. She was married in New York in the early part of the year 1892. The marriage was a sensational episode, the story of which was printed in this paper with all the interesting details. Likewise it was in this paper that the story of her first meeting with Talbot Taylor was told. That meeting occurred less than two years ago at a house party at Cedarhurst. Taylor exhibited a passionate fondness for the bewitching Marie at first sight, and his feelings becoming obvious to his wife the house party almost broke up in a row.—Town Talk.

coming as common with our Japanese pot-washers, window-cleaners and carpet-sweepers as German barons; only in the case of fictitious barons some patriotic Teuton is always here to rise up and stamp the brand as spurious. With the Japs nobody cares much anyway, so Aoki's claim goes unnoticed. In Seattle Miss Emery puts up with her husband at the Great Northern Hotel, frequented exclusively by Japs and Chinese.—The Wasp.

COINCIDENCE STORY BY THE GOVERNOR

Here is a prize coincidence story, which I heard from the lips of the principal man concerned, Governor Gillett:

Some time ago the Governor was at San Quentin, and was being shown the system by which prisoners are identified. The system is conducted by means of cards, on each of which is a portrait of an ex-convict with a description of him, including measurements and other characteristics. The man who conducted the system, in order to illustrate it, took a card out at random from the 5000 that made up the collection and handed it to the Governor. Gillett looked at it, gasped, rubbed his eyes and looked again. It was the portrait of a man whom he had defended for burglary in the Superior Court of Humboldt, his home county, in 1885. The more one thinks of the coincidence the more remarkable it seems.—News Letter.

THE CHAUFFEUR IN SOCIETY

In these days of trustbusting and class hatreds it is perhaps but natural that our aristocracy should seek to protect the proletariat by the affection of democratic spirit. This by way of reply to a correspondent who asks me what I think of the practice that has been introduced in the exclusive set that has its headquarters in Burlingame, the practice of employing a chauffeur for his companionship while lunching in a fashionable hotel dining room. I think it's all right, especially in these piping times of pernicious demagogues. At the same time I realize that the chauffeur is in a class by himself, and that he is regarded by women as a character possessing something of romantic interest. The fact is that the chauffeur has been admitted to society. He should be a hero to the lady whose auto he drives.—Town Talk.

CHALONER BREAKS DOWN

John Armstrong Chaloner, or Chaloner, former husband of Amelia Blythe, now Princess Troubetzkoy, the eccentric millionaire who recently shot and killed John Gilland, a pensioner at Merry Mills, Chaloner's estate in Virginia, while Gilland was beating his wife, has suffered a nervous reaction consequent upon the stirring scenes in which he participated. Chaloner, who was once an inmate of Bloomingdale, ordered that the bloodstains from the shooting be permitted to remain upon the dining-room floor. He desired them to be a memento of the shooting. He did a good many other eccentric things to prove his strength of mind and his sanity, of which it would appear he himself has some suspicions. Chaloner is stopping with an old friend, Major Thomas L. Emry, at Weddon, North Carolina.—The Wasp.

LOUIS GLASS AND THE COURTS

The Appellate Court has unanimously reversed the judgment of the lower court in the case of Louis Glass. It is needless to again discuss the case. The court exhaustively handles the subject, and the main point made in the reversal is that irrelevant matters were maliciously introduced by the prosecution to prejudice the jury. It is also shown that Judge Lawlor's refusal to instruct the jury as to the effect the refusal of Zimmer to testify might have on their minds is an error that even a police judge would have avoided. It is doubtful if the case ever brought up again. The News Letter predicted that the prosecution would fall in this, as it has in other cases, once the merits of the case came before a competent tribunal.—News Letter.

THE GLASS CASE

The reversal of the Glass case caused no surprise in legal circles. It may be doubted whether it caused any surprise among the men that prosecuted Glass, for when Glass was tried it was fondly believed that all the judges in the State were in a state of panic. It was believed that as Glass had been adjudged guilty by the lords of the manor, it was merely in the nature of a compliment to be indulged by way of concession to an absurd sentiment. The defendant, it will be remembered, was Daniel of the Horn, William P. Lawlor v. G. P. was in flower; when the moral issue is defined by the Tartar of the reform dispensation is paramount, and when some of our judicial officers were as eager as soon as divinely appointed guardian angels to gratify the rampant spirit of revenge. It will be remembered that the mob almost crowded the jury out of the box and that the prosecutor most vicious periods were applauded by the gallery. It is well to remember all these things, for the hideous obsessions of the Queen in old age is as fond of precious stones as when she was a bride. She has thirty-five tiaras, and by the death of her mother, Queen of Denmark, came into possession of one of the finest collections of gems in Europe. Alexandra's complete collection is surpassed only by those of the Zarina and the Queen of Spain. In the last few years Alexandra has bestowed rare pieces from her collection upon her daughters and the Princess of Wales. Still her store grows, however, as she constantly is receiving gifts of jewels from admiring and generous subjects.—The Wasp.

HOLD OVER OF LENTEN SEASON

The Lenten quiet has not yet been pricked like a bubble. There is still a hold-over air of social inertia, nor are we apt to have a return to the winter brand of festivities unless a notable should happen along for whom some one would arrange a brilliant ball or something of that sort. Otherwise we are measured to the spring suit which society always dons—a pastel shade and the pastel emotions consequent. Informal luncheons without end, little bridge parties and tea meetings, plenty of chatter and gurgles of laughter in the places where girls gather—but the man element left out, and so nothing virile about the entertaining. When summer is really here, enters once more the man into the scheme of social things. The only variation in the round of girly-girly entertainments is the hop at the Presidio, and on Wednesday night of this week an unusual number of girls from town went out to the Officers' Club to enjoy the dance which has become a part of army life.—News Letter.

THE KISS OF THE POLO GAME

By the way, it was not Miss Sears, as has been currently reported, that Walter Hobart kissed in the presence of the multitude. The fair was Miss Virginia Joliffe. Why he epidemic should have occasioned so much discussion I am at a loss to understand. Is there such a premium on hypocrisy as to make it worse? I white for us to pretend that we are shocked at the most trivial and harmless of pranks? Perhaps the grand stand at a polo game is not the most suitable place in the world for an oratory performance, but at this late date it is hardly reasonable to expect Walter Hobart to exhibit a becoming deference to the proprieties. Furthermore, as one of the heroes of the day he was entitled to indulgence, and I am sure that if he promised the kiss in the event of victory it is that prompted the promise is rather to be glorified than censured. It is the spirit that has inspired the songs of the noblest poets and the deeds of the greatest heroes of romance.—Town Talk.

FORMER BOHEMIAN ON VISIT

Frank Unger paid such a brief visit to San Francisco that few even knew he was in town until he had departed. It is about three weeks ago that he arrived. He stopped long enough to shake hands with his old friends and be the honored guest at a dinner of the Bohemian Club's "Old Guard" before he departed eastward. Unger was one of the earliest members of the club, with his particular friends, Guy Greene, the dramatist, Joe Griswold, the actor, Harry Gillig, and Ben Teal. He is also a "Lamb" of New York, as are his friends above mentioned.—Town Talk.

TWO SHERIFFS IN FIFTY YEARS

San Joaquin county has had but two sheriffs in fifty years. Sheriff Cunningham, probably the best known in his day of all California officers, filled the position four decades. His successor, W. F. Sibley, has already been re-elected three times, and promises to rival the record of his predecessor. Such a record is one for both the officials concerned and the voters of the county to be proud of. That it tends to efficiency is self-evident. The continuous substitution of new men in the Sheriff's office every few years is not conducive either to effectiveness or economical administration. San Francisco might take pattern from her adjacent sister county, and try the experiment of re-electing good and proven men to official positions as long as they are able and willing to perform the duties imposed.

WILL OPEN THREE WEEKS' MISSION

Dominican Priests Will Commence Series of Sermons Sunday

ST. GEORGE HOTEL FIRE A WARNING

Such Fire Traps Should Be Done Away With Before It Is Too Late

Beginning tomorrow at the 11 o'clock service a three-weeks' mission will open at St. Mary's Church, Eighth and Joffre streets. The sermons of the mission will be given by the celebrated preachers of the Order of St. Dominic. Rev. Fathers are here from the Dominican monastery of New York city and are well known throughout the Atlantic Coast States for the successful mission which they have preached in all the large cities of the East.

The order of devotional exercises during the mission will comprise masses at 8:30 and 9 o'clock each morning of the week, and sermon on the great truths of religion for each sex.

The evening services will commence at a quarter past 8 o'clock. The first week of the mission will be for the Catholic women of the city and the second week will be devoted to the men. The third week will consist of a series of lectures for non-Catholics.

Non-Catholics Interested

In an interview Father Dempsey, the rector of St. Mary's Church, stated that a large number of non-Catholics were already interested in this series of lectures. He says that the purpose of the lectures is not to arouse controversy nor to attempt any proselytizing work, but simply to give an opportunity to many to hear a simple explanation of some of the beliefs of the Catholic Church.

The Catholic Church is a spiritual society which is made up of people of every race and nationality, under the sun and has embracess about five hundred millions in its membership. That society has a marked influence in the affairs of the world in which we live and a long history going out to its twentieth century point.

Many of its teachings are misinterpreted and much about its methods and beliefs are unknown to the non-Catholic world. The student of affairs should know something about it as an organization which has such a long history and which exerts such a big influence in the modern world.

A desire to satisfy those who may be seeking knowledge about the tenets of the Catholic Church is the purpose of these lectures of the third week of the mission.

Special Music

At the 11 o'clock service on Sunday the music will be rendered by the Oakland Conservatory of Music choir under the direction of Prof. A. Gregory. The beautiful music of Easter will be given. The same choir will sing solemn vespers at the Sunday evening services. During the week the music will be given by the Young Ladies' Choir of St. Mary's Church.

TO INSTALL TALK METERS ON PHONES

CHICAGO, April 17.—The existence of a woman in increasing the talk of another woman is seriously questioned by George Hibbard of the Chicago Telephone company.

Therefore, the company has installed nearly 2,000 "talking" meters.

The franchise of the company provides that meters shall be installed just as soon as an efficient meter is found.

One engineer of the Chicago Telephone company has invented a device which is being tested.

It is in every one of four which have been investigated, but checkups were found to each.

The one now being tested is the same which is used in New York. The only difference is that New York uses a shorter circuit, and Hibbard said that the plan which was the most efficient

HEART—TRIBUNE'S PAGE FOR WOMEN—HOME

GETS DIVORCE FROM CHORUS GIRL WIFE

PHILADELPHIA, Pa.—The jury which tried the divorce suit of Albert S. Ridley against Mrs. Rosina Kann Ridley, the former chorus girl, brought in a verdict for Ridley. The jury found that Mrs. Ridley had been guilty of improper conduct with a man named Miller in 204 Manhattan avenue on the night of August 27, 1901, when Ridley and a party of friends raided her apartments by the light of matches.

Mr. Ridley was the principal witness examined. She took the witness stand with the aid of one who says "Now we'll have the truth," and as the examination became animated fanned herself with a souvenir post-card.

She managed to get even with Mrs. Alice B. Cowan, her former housekeeper, who testified in Ridley's behalf. With flashing eyes she added that witness's name was not Cowan, but Peckham, and that she took the name of her sweetheart though she was not married to him. As for Ridley, his wife spoke of him with contempt. She said he sued her for divorce at the order of William Nelson Cromwell, with whose law firm he was connected.

Husband Kissed Her

Testifying as to the raid led by her husband, Mrs. Ridley said she had gone to bed, when tramping of heavy feet aroused her from half-sleep. There were heavy knocks on her bedroom door, and then her husband threatened to break the door if she did not open it. So she opened it to save the woodwork, she said, and her husband and his raiders found her alone in her bedroom. There was no weeping nor appeals for pardon on her part. She said that when her husband saw she was alone he begged her pardon, saying: "Oh, girlie, I am so sorry! I love you so much!"

AMERICAN WOMAN and HER WORK IN TURKEY

White and smiling, surrounded by emperors and pomegranates and American elms, in a city of the Orient stands an American college for girls. Scutari, the Asiatic suburb of Constantinople, is its seat.

At the head of this college is a New England woman, Dr. Mary Mills Patrick. The development of the college has been her life work, says Hampton's Magazine. It was founded in 1871 as a high school, and Dr. Patrick then little more than a girl, became connected with it soon after.

Under her management it has grown from a small beginning into an important educational institution. Graduates of the college are helping to shape the history of Eastern Europe and the Ottoman Empire. It is the only institution in the near East for the higher education of women.

It offers Western ideals, Western culture and Western advantages to the ambitious women of Roumania, Bulgaria and Servia on the north, Persia, Mesopotamia and other regions of the Tigris and the Euphrates on the east, Egypt and Syria on the south, and Greece and Albania on the west. Either they come, Armenian, Greek, Bulgarian, Turkish, Abstran, German, Arabian, Moslem, Albanian, Spanish, Hebrew, Russian, Hebrew, Servian.

There are poor, struggling native teachers working for educational advancement with the aid of the money they have saved from years of toil in their native schools, daughters of peashooters and other high-class

Wedding Feast Cost $591, and Not a Cent To Pay It

HACKENSACK, N. J.—A long-haired tramp entered the home of W. E. Brockner, a meat dealer, on Passaic and Linden streets, today, and compelled Mrs. Brockner to fry four eggs and make sandwiches for him.

Mrs. Brockner was threatened with violence if she gave an outcry, and the tramp stood near by so as to prevent her from leaving the kitchen. The frightened woman collapsed after the tramp had wrapped up the sandwiches and left the house. She recovered sufficiently to go to her husband's store, a block away, to give an alarm.

Chief of Police Dunn searched the town for the tramp but failed to find him.

GIVES HOME TO WIFE Then She Ejects Him

PHILADELPHIA.—If a husband for any reason transfers his property in the name of his wife she has a means of ejecting him. Vice Chancellor Leaming, in Camden, yesterday rendered an opinion to that effect.

The case was that of Warren Herbert of Millville against his wife, Mary, and Henry S. Alvord. Herbert by hard work bought two houses. For personal reasons he thought best not to take the title in his own name, and at the time of the

Must Not Make Any More Salomes in the Sand

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J.—Beach sand artists who have taken to modeling Salomes out of sand and flesh-tinted clay aroused the ire of Mayor Stoy when they forgot to put sand veils around the images. As a consequence an order was issued to day halting the modeling of nude figures, and policemen visited the artists with threats to jump on the fragile statues unless the order was obeyed.

The order also includes reproductions of unclothed Venusies arising from the sea and other class figures which have become favorite studies for the artists, who found they brought quarters instead of nickels and dimes from male promenaders.

Nervous Ill-Health of Americans : Made the Voices

I think myself that what, as much as anything else, laid the foundation of the American voice was the nervous ill-health, lasting over three or four generations, of the American woman, says a writer in the London Chronicle. Up to the middle of the nineteenth century, and even beyond, foreigners were surprised when they came across a healthy-looking woman. The isolation of frontier life, the general tension of the American climate, malaria, bad diet and worse sanitation, combined to turn one-half the nation into semi-invalids; and the thin, sharp, slovenly, staccato tones of the American women were as often as not the result of physical and nervous depression.

I do not say that ill health was the sole cause, but it is undoubtedly the fact that as the health of Americans has improved so have their voices.

Elmhurst, L. I., Busybodies Are Scored by Clergyman, Who Says They Taint the Girls, Not the Statues

NEW YORK—There is something wrong in Elmhurst, L. I. say the clergymen of that village. But they are quick to add, it is not in the much-talked-about photographs of famous pieces of sculpture on the walls of the public library. On the contrary, they say it is the efforts of a very few women in the community who want those pictures removed and who are teaching young girls to blush at what should cause no shame.

"Sacrilegious as purity is," said the Rev. David Yule of the Presbyterian church yesterday, "it is a greater menace to the morals of a town thanrank indecency. But when that pushy sort of so-called purity is directed against that which is fine and beautiful, it is doubly a menace. Such an upstart as we are having now in Elmhurst is very ridiculous, but it cannot be dismissed as merely that, for it is giving the town a bad reputation and tainting the minds of the young by making them see vice where there is none."

"Of course, there should be a law about them with whom anybody can object to with reason. In Washington the other day I saw the Greek Slave in the Courts of Art Galliv. It is absolutely nude. There is no life, but it is the most abominable object I ever saw in my life."

"Let a boy or a girl go into that library together to look at the Discus Thrower or the Apollo Belvedere. They see something that is beautiful and inspiring. They see nothing to make the sweetest, most innocent girl in the world blush, nothing to arouse in the mind of the boy a thought of evil. But along comes the bus-body, shrieking purity and calling it purity. She points to the big leaf, which to her is the principal thing in the picture, and she whispers to the boy and girl. The boy and the girl are poisoned and tainted then, not by the picture, but by the bus-body, and they do blush. But it has been put in the place of culture, and the art, the truth, the natural beauty of those children may put their minds on a lower level for life."

"I don't mean to say that the women who have stirred up this fuss are consciously indecent. I will go so far as to admit that they mean well. But it is a case of zeal without knowledge. They are busybodies. They are gossip, who, instead of whispering to each other about the frailties of their neighbors, go out from the houses tops about things of which they are ignorant."

"As to the pictures, there is nothing about them with whom anybody can object to with reason. In Washington the other day I saw the Greek Slave in the Courts of Art Galliv. It is absolutely nude. There is no life, but it is the most abominable object I ever saw in my life."

"Mrs. Harriet S. Pitchford, one of the Purity League women, asked me to oppose

Piles Up $450 Fines On a Woman Autoist

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J.—Holland, home-owning, well dressed, years of age, is weeping in a city jail to night, while police are endeavoring to unravel the mystery surrounding the girl. Two men owned the blue automobile in which she had been cutting a wide swath around the resort for several days.

"Miss Holland," as she gave her name to the police, declares that her name is Philadelphia, and that her companions, who gave the Lee Platinum of Philadelphia, a Lapinetta of 237 South Lee Avenue of 237 South Street, Philadelphia, are where they will remain until the aggregate of $450 fines imposed upon them by Recorder Hayes tonight.

The direct charge against the trio is that of running the car in New Jersey without a license, but the police allege that they first got on the trail of the three through complaint of a prominent local man, who said that a pleasant automobile ride with the girl, an extremely wealthy owner, and Lapinetta, as chaperone, was followed by loss of a valuable scarf pin.

Several other well-known men about town and boardwalk sports have been elated with the police also, and it is believed that the police are merely holding the trio under the heavy fines while they look further into the operations of

WOMAN URGES WALKS AS A ROAD TO HEALTH

PHILADELPHIA, April 13.—Walking should be a regular part of one's daily program in eating three meals a day. It means health, and health brings happiness. Then, why not walk happy?

"I never walk less than thirty miles daily, and I form a circle two miles wide, and about half a mile less than thirty-six blocks every day. Of course, the country is the preferable place to walk, but not all can go there."

"Do you know," she went on, "I am an ambitious advocate of this most natural kind of physical exercise? I even go so far as to advise my patients to walk and jog well. I believe in it better than I believe in any other exercise."

Dr. Martha E. Kerckhoff, of Twenty-third street, daughter of William A. Kerckhoff, offers it to those who have fallen off the pace of walking. Her late energetic patient, and a local sportsman, got nothing but trouble.

When an student at Woman's College, Twenty-first street, College Avenue, Dr. Martha went about from her home to walk three times daily, a total of seventy-two blocks. She was eighty-old then, and virtually a wreck when she entered the
